

...IN THE SOCIAL REALM...

When at King Winter's fierce approach Queen Autumn walling fled, She left behind her in the woods Her royal robes of red;
And lost among the shadow grass, O'er the windy world,
Her crown of purple amethysts, And sceptre wrought of gold.

Behold! upon the mossy rocks Above the blackberry vines, A wand of finest azure,
Her golden scepter shines;
And where the sunbeams hang its lamps To light us as we pass, The scattered jewels from her crown Are twinkling in the grass.

Asters and Golden Rod.

Midsummer has embroidered her robe In ways of golden rod and hung about her neck the smellythly splendor of the purple aster.
Her love of rich hues and splendid color tones is evidenced in the brilliant scarlet of geranium, the vivid spray of flowering sage and the deeper tints in the feathery plumes of "Love Lies Bleeding." In the yellow glory of coreopsis and sun flower; in the burnt orange of nasturtium and in the manifold boules of gladioli and of pink and white hydrangeas.

Summer has reached the full measure of coming change has not overshadowed the sunny ripeness of her gladness countenance.
She stands with the glory of light and blossom falling around her, an emerald carpet of fragrant, lush grasses beneath her feet, and her generous hands heaped high with the wealth of her gifts to all who ask of her.

Hers has been a gracious presence this summer of 1904. She is to be loved and looked at while she may, for only a few more weeks of dominion are left for her and for those who have known her to enjoy.
She represents the fulfillment of the present, and the present is all there is that life and love may certainly claim.

Coaching Party.

That Richmond society people are devotees of summer in their outdoor pleasures may be easily gathered from the echoes that come from all over the State, wherever their inclinations have carried them.

After the Albemarle Horse Show last week Mr. George Cole Scott gave a delightful coaching party from Charlottesville to "Royal Orchard," the lovely country home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Scott, near Afton, Va.

In the party were Miss Frances Scott, Miss Page Aylett Royall, Mr. Corydon Thompson and Mrs. J. B. Scott. After a several day interval charmingly spent at "Royal Orchard," the entire party drove to the Staunton Horse Show, where Mr. Scott's superb break and four captured the blue ribbon. Their owner will be visiting the Staunton mountains this summer, driving from one point to another and stopping at all the principal Virginia resorts. In the fall Mr. Scott will enter his break and four at the Richmond show, the crowning event of its kind for the year in Virginia.

Morrison-Boyden.

An approaching marriage of much interest to Richmond is that of Miss Elizabeth Noland Boyden, daughter of Mr. John Boyden, of Albemarle county, Va., to Mr. Hackley Morrison, of this city. Miss Boyden, since making her debut, has been one of Albemarle's most attractive and popular young ladies. She is a host of friends here, where she has often visited. Mr. Morrison is a son of the late Hackley Morrison, of Petersburg, and is one of Richmond's most careful young business men.

The wedding will take place early in October in the historic and beautiful Grace Church, Clarendon street.

approaching marriage of her daughter, Elizabeth Madison, to Mr. George Minor friends both here and in Petersburg, where she resided until a few years ago.

Mr. Meredith is a very popular young druggist of Norfolk. The wedding will take place in October.

Derbyshire-Cushing.

There was a very quiet wedding at Kennebunkport on Wednesday, August 20, when Miss Edith Lillian Cushing, of New York, was married from the summer home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs.
John Heuvelman, to Lieutenant George Arley Derbyshire, United States army.
The ceremony was performed by Canon Degen at St. Anne's Church, which was beautifully decorated with flowers and greens.

The bride was given away by her father, Mr. Edward T. Cushing. Her gown was of white chiffon cloth, and she wore a veil and carried a shower bouquet of lilacs of the valley. The bridesmaid was Miss Harriet Russell, daughter of the late Judge Leslie W. Russell, and Miss Marie Wallen Struthers, daughter of Mrs. James Struthers, of New York.
They were in white, with short veils, and carried bouquets of pink and white pears. Mr. Joseph Cloyd Kent, of Richmond, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. Clements J. S. Hallett, a cousin of the bride, and Mr. Howard Sage White, of Waterbury, Conn.

Among those present at the church were Mr. and Mrs. Heuvelman, Mr. and Mrs.
Edward T. Cushing, of New York; Mr.
James Derbyshire, of Richmond; Miss Susan Cushing, Dr. Edward Dyer Peters, Mrs. Tufts, Miss Isabella S. Paine, Mrs.
James Struthers, Mrs. Charles Peter Clark, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Stent, of San Francisco.

Immediately after the ceremony there was a reception at the Heuvelmans residence, where the decorations were golden rod and asparagus.
Lieutenant and Mrs. Derbyshire are extremely fond of Kennebunkport, and will remain there for a while. Mr. and Mrs.
Heuvelman will leave for New York the following day, and will return to the wedding, and giving up the household to the young couple. There were beautiful wedding gifts.

Clifton Forge, Va.

The groom is president of William Woods College, at Fulton, Mo., where he has made an enviable reputation as one of the foremost educators of that progressive State.

The bride, who has been entrusted with several important positions at educational institutions in this and adjoining States, is well and favorably known for her force of character and charm of manner. She is a sister of Judge George K. Anderson, and Miss Ella K. Anderson, of Clifton Forge, and Mrs. W. S. Gooch, of this city.

The marriage ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. F. D. Power, pastor of the Vermont Avenue Christian Church, of Washington, D. C., in an impressive, eloquent and beautiful manner.
The marriage was quiet, but elegant, in accordance with the wish of the bride, and was witnessed only by the near relatives of the contracting parties.

The bride's costume was of white silk and rare old lace, from her mother's wedding gown. Her ornaments were pearls and sapphires.
The house was tastefully decorated with potted plants and a profusion of cut flowers. The wedding gifts were numerous and handsome.

For several days prior to the marriage Judge and Mrs. George K. Anderson entertained a house party, including near relatives of the bride and groom, in their spacious and hospitable home. Pleasure reigned supreme from day to day, and genuine hospitality was displayed.

MOWING HAY IN HIGHLAND IN GUM COATS THIS SEASON

(Special To The Times-Dispatch.) MONTREY, VA., Aug. 13.—The presented hay season bids fair to prove the most inauspicious the people of Highland have ever known, and to say that the farmers are "blue" is putting it mildly.
The harvest, which at this season should be far advanced, if not completed, has scarcely begun, and the hay that has been made thus far has been imperfectly cured, and the work attended with much worry and expense. "Make hay while the sun shines," is a proverb upon which Highlanders "stand pat," but this season he don't shine.
